

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A system for printing, stacking and binding pages that has a drive system arranged to direct pages along a page path, a print station positioned on the page path, an adhesive station positioned downstream of the drive system, a support tray for receiving pages to be stacked, a vibrator interacting with the way so as to induce vibration therein and a press device adapted to apply a compressive force to the stack of pages.